

ELECTRO MECHANICAL SYSTEMS LIMITED

29 April 2026

Dear Customer

California Proposition 65

California Proposition 65 (commonly known as PROP65) is a law unique to the US State of California. This law prohibits anyone conducting business in California, or selling a product to a consumer in California, from knowingly and intentionally exposing an individual to specific chemicals.

Electro Mechanical Systems Ltd is both an importer and manufacturer of motors, actuators and electro-mechanical motion control devices, but is neither a manufacturer nor importer of chemicals. Any substances (such as lubricant, adhesive etc) contained within the products placed on the market are not intended to be released during normal or reasonably foreseen conditions, any substances used in the process of manufacturing products are used for the purposes for which they were intended and in accordance with the MSDS.

Electro Mechanical Systems Ltd do not manufacture or market consumer products, however, the products supplied may be incorporated directly or indirectly into consumer products which could be used in a wide variety of applications and industry sectors, both domestically and internationally. Therefore, customers should evaluate the application and environment in which they intend to use the products to determine their obligations under PROP65.

If you require any further information please contact me at the address below.

Yours faithfully

Ryan Sanderson
QHSE Manager